Part 3

Remedies of Landlords and Tenants

Landlord's remedies

26(1) If a tenant commits a breach of a residential tenancy agreement, the landlord may apply to a court for one or more of the following remedies:

- (a) where the breach consists of non-payment of rent, recovery of arrears of rent;

- (b) where the breach consists of failing to give up possession of the residential premises,
 - (i) recovery of possession of the premises from the overholding tenant, and
 - (ii) recovery of compensation for the use and occupation of the premises by the overholding tenant;
- (c) where the breach is a substantial breach, termination of the tenancy;
- (d) recovery of damages resulting from the breach.

- (a) if a claim is made for the recovery of arrears of rent, the amount of rent in arrears and the time during which it has been in arrears;
- (b) if a claim is made for the recovery of damages resulting from a breach of the residential tenancy agreement, the details of the breach and the amount of damages claimed;
- (c) if a claim is made for the recovery of compensation for the use and occupation of premises by an overholding tenant,

- (e) if a claim is made for the termination of the tenancy by reason of a substantial breach of the tenancy agreement, the details of the breach and the requested termination date.

Repudiation of tenancy

27(1) If a tenant by abandonment of the residential premises or otherwise gives the landlord reasonable grounds to believe that the tenant has repudiated the residential tenancy agreement, the landlord may either

- (a) accept the repudiation as a termination of the tenancy, or
- (b) refuse to accept the repudiation and continue the tenancy.

(2) In the case of a periodic tenancy, for the purposes of subsections (3) and (7), the tenant's acts of repudiation constitute a proper notice effective to terminate the tenancy on the earliest date that the tenant could have terminated the tenancy under this Act.

(3) A landlord who accepts the repudiation as a termination of the tenancy may recover

- (a) damages resulting from a breach of the residential tenancy agreement prior to the repudiation, and
- (b) damages for the loss of the benefit of the residential tenancy agreement
 - (i) in the case of fixed term tenancy, until it would have expired had the landlord not accepted the repudiation, or
 - (ii) in the case of a periodic tenancy, until the termination date.

(4) Notwithstanding subsection (3)(b), a landlord shall make reasonable efforts to mitigate the damages for the loss of the benefits of the residential tenancy agreement.

(5) A landlord who refuses to accept the repudiation and elects to continue the tenancy shall make reasonable efforts to mitigate the tenant's liability for rent under the residential tenancy agreement.

(6) A landlord who rents the premises to a new tenant in order to mitigate a tenant's liability for rent under a residential tenancy agreement

- (a) is deemed to have accepted the repudiation of the landlord's previous tenant as terminating that tenancy at the time the new tenancy commences, and
 - (b) may recover damages in the same manner as if the landlord had accepted the tenant's repudiation of the residential tenancy agreement.
- (7) Subject to subsection (5), a landlord who refuses to accept the repudiation and elects to continue the tenancy may, so long as the landlord has not rented the premises to a new tenant, recover rent accruing under the residential tenancy agreement
- (a) in the case of a fixed term tenancy, until it expires, or
 - (b) in the case of a periodic tenancy, until the termination date.

Termination for substantial breach by landlord

28(1) A tenant may apply to a court to terminate the tenancy or may terminate the tenancy by serving the landlord with a notice at least 14 days before the day that the tenancy is to terminate where

- (a) the landlord commits a substantial breach of the residential tenancy agreement, and
 - (b) an executive officer has issued an order under section 62 of the Public Health Act in respect of the circumstances that constitute the substantial breach, and the tenant believes on reasonable grounds that the landlord has failed to comply with the order.
- (2) The notice must
- (a) be in writing,
 - (b) be signed by the tenant,
 - (c) set out the reasons for the termination, and
 - (d) set out the termination date.
- (3) A notice to terminate under this section is ineffective if
- (a) within 7 days from the date the landlord receives the notice, the landlord serves the tenant with a notice in writing objecting to the termination on the grounds that the landlord has complied with the order under the Public Health Act or has been granted a stay of the order, and

- (b) at the time of serving the notice of objection the landlord has complied with the order or has been granted a stay of the order.

Termination for substantial breach by tenant

- (b) be signed by the landlord or the landlord's agent,
- (c) set out separately
 - (i) the rent due as of the date of the notice, and
 - (ii) any additional rent that may become due during the notice period,
- (d) set out the reasons for the termination, and
- (e) set out the termination date.

(3) Where a landlord terminates a tenancy for non-payment of rent, the notice to terminate must state that the tenancy will not be terminated if, on or before the termination date specified in the notice, the tenant pays the rent due and any additional rent that has become due under the residential tenancy agreement as of the date of payment.

(4) A notice to terminate under this section is ineffective if, before the termination date given in the notice, the tenant

- (a) pays all rent due as of the date of payment, if the alleged breach is a failure to pay rent, or
- (b) serves the landlord with a notice in writing objecting to the termination that sets out the tenant's reasons for objecting, if the alleged breach is other than a failure to pay rent.

- (a) be in writing,
- (b) be signed by the landlord or the landlord's agent,
- (c) set out the reasons for the termination, and
- (d) set out the time and date that the tenancy is to terminate.

(3) If a landlord terminates a tenancy by serving a notice under subsection (1) and the tenant has not vacated the premises by the time and date set out in the notice, the landlord may within 10 days after the termination date apply to a court for an order confirming the termination of the tenancy and for any remedy that may be granted under section 26.

(4) An application under subsection (3) must be supported by an affidavit setting out the following:

- (a) details of the damage or physical assault or threat;
- (b) a copy of the notice to terminate and the time and date it was served.

(5) If the landlord has not applied to a court to confirm the termination of the tenancy within 10 days after the termination date and the tenant has not vacated the premises, the termination of the tenancy by notice of the landlord is ineffective and the tenancy is deemed never to have been terminated by notice of the landlord under this section.

(6) A court may grant an order confirming the termination of the tenancy if satisfied that the tenant has done or permitted significant damage or committed the assault or threat referred to in subsection (1).

(7) If a court is not satisfied that the tenant has done or permitted significant damage or committed the assault or threat referred to in subsection (1), the court may declare the termination of the tenancy by notice of the landlord to be ineffective and the tenancy is deemed never to have been terminated by notice of the landlord under this section.

- (a) that the storage of the goods would be unsanitary or unsafe or would rapidly result in total or substantial depreciation in their market value, or
- (b) that the cost of removing, storing and selling the goods would exceed the proceeds of their sale, may sell the goods by a means and for a price that the landlord believes is reasonable.

(4) If subsections (2) and (3) do not apply, the landlord

- (a) shall store or arrange for storage of the goods on behalf of the tenant until the expiration of the prescribed period after the date of their abandonment, and
 - (b) afterwards may dispose of the goods by public auction or, with the approval of a court, by private sale.

- (9) A landlord may apply the proceeds of any sale of abandoned goods

- (11) On payment of the surplus into the General Revenue Fund under subsection (10), the tenant's claim to that surplus is extinguished.
- (12) This section does not apply to goods on premises against which a civil enforcement agency executes an order of possession.

(13) A landlord shall keep a record of the storage, disposition or sale of goods under this section including

- (a) a description of the goods,
- (b) the period for which and the location at which they were stored,

- (b) special damages the landlord has suffered resulting from the landlord's liability to a new tenant because of the landlord's failure to deliver possession of the premises to the new tenant, if the tenant could reasonably have foreseen that those damages would be a consequence of the tenant's failure to vacate the premises.

Notice to vacate

33(1) If the tenant having the right to occupy residential premises has abandoned the premises, the landlord may require a person living in the premises who is not a tenant to vacate the premises by serving the person with a notice to vacate.
